

The European Control Conference

The European Control Conference (ECC) has been organized every two years under the auspices of the European Control Association (EUCA) since 1991. From 2013 on it will take place annually.

The conference aims to bring together academic and industrial professionals in the field of systems and control, and to promote scientific cooperation and exchanges within Europe and between Europe and other parts of the World.

ECC13 is the 12th in the EUCA Series of European Control Conferences and will be held in Zurich, Switzerland from July 17 to 19, 2013. The 2013 local organizer is the Swiss Federal Institute of Technology Zurich (ETH Zurich), with Prof. Manfred Morari serving as the General Chair, Prof. Lino Guzzella as Vice & Sponsoring Chair, and Prof. John Lygeros as the International Program Committee Chair.

Technical co-sponsorship of the event is provided by the IEEE Control Systems Society (CSS), and the event is held in cooperation with the International Federation of Automatic Control (IFAC).

The European Control Association

In 1990, members of the Systems and Control community from across the European Union decided to set up an organization, named the European Union Control Association (EUCA), with the main goal of promoting initiatives that enhance scientific exchange, disseminate information, and coordinate research networks and technology transfer in the field of Systems and Control within the Union.

EUCA launched its first major initiative in 1991 with a series of wide-spectrum conferences called the European Control Conferences (ECC). The goal of these conferences was to promote the science and technology of control in the broadest sense – whether in engineering, physical, biological, social or economic, and in both theory and application. The first ECC was held in Grenoble in 1991, under the chairmanship of Professor Ioan Landau, and was attended by about 650 people. The ECC was subsequently held every two years until 2011. From 2013 onward, it will be held annually.

EUCA's second major initiative came in 1995 with the launch of the European Journal of Control, a scientific journal that would serve as EUCA's main channel for disseminating important contributions to the field of Systems and Control. The first issue of the journal appeared in September of that year under the editorial direction of Professor Landau. For a decade starting in 2003 Professor Sergio Bittanti was the editor-in-chief. In July 2013 he was succeeded by Professor Alessandro Astolfi.

In 2012 the association was re-formed as the European Control Association (EUCA) to reflect the growing scope of the organization.
